BASIC-ABSTRACT:

NOVELTY - Training mannequin has rigid rectangular frame and training devices hanging from frame. Training devices simulating basic body parts of imaginary opponent are made in the form of sets of elliptical training members. Members of one set are vertically hanging from central part of frame by means of flexible rod fixed on upper and lower frame traverses. Two other parallel upper and lower sets of elliptical training devices are horizontally fixed by flexible rods between frame side traverses. Additional elliptical training member is positioned between second and third vertical training devices for displacement through arc of 90 deg. Said additional training member is arranged at an angle of 45 deg to vertical flexible rod. Two additional training devices are positioned for rotation about their axes on flexible rod of upper horizontal set of training devices in the vicinity of third vertical training device symmetrically at its both sides. Additional training devices are made in the form of rods with boxer's gloves on their ends. Flexible rod of upper set is passed through upper part of third vertical training device and lower set is passed through center of lower vertical training device.

USE - Sportive equipment.

ADVANTAGE - Increased intensity in blowing strikes and provision for avoiding of user's traumatism. 1 dwg
